

Hello,
my name is...
Sarah McQuaid

.....

Favourite book?

The Wind In The Willows by Kenneth Grahame

Favourite album?

The White Album by The Beatles.

What actor, actress would you most like to play you in the film of your life?

I'd leave that decision to the professionals.

Who would you like to do the theme music?

Well, it would be nice to have a crack at it myself.

Favourite food?

Artichokes. Always has been.

Favourite drink?

Water.

What's your greatest ambition you've yet to fulfill?

Finish writing the novel I started years ago.

Your concept of Heaven?

Oneness with the universe

Your concept of Hell?

Isolation.

Favourite term of abuse

Oh, you bad thing, you.

Words to live by?

Everything will be all right in the end.

What would you like your final words to be?

Hang on, there was something else I wanted to say.

Who do you most admire?

My husband, for putting up with me.

● Sarah McQuaid is a singer, guitarist and writer. Born in Madrid and raised in Chicago, she has made her home in Ireland since 1994. Sarah is the author of The Irish DADGAD Guitar Book and has recorded one album, When Two Lovers Meet, officially re-released in February 2007. Catch her Wednesday in the Triskel Arts Centre at 8pm, doors 7.30pm.